BLIZZARD IN THE SOUTH.

A Crazy Man Who Wanted to Get to Washington and Kill President Cleveland is Arrested and Locked Up Over Night in a Texas Town.

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 26.—The following message came to Payallup by a homing pigeon sent by the Post Intelligence Mount Rainier party:

"Camp Mountain View, Foot of Carbon Glacier, Wednesday, Dec. 26.—While crossing the Wintrop glacier, yesterday, Major Ingraham made a critical examination of Blaine glacier, by way of which the ascent to the summit was to have been made, and found that the ice and snow was so broken up that an attempt to climb up would have proven disastrous. Consequently, the summit was not attempted."

The expedition has been an entire success. It has demonstrated that while the mountain has been both smoking and steaming the chance is due principally to tremendous avalanches and not to an eruption. The new peak observed from Seattle is off Columbia's crest, and was formed by spiral winds carrying the snow and whipping it into the cone-shaped peak described. The party will be home Friday.

A MIGHTY STORM.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 26.—Louisville is experiencing the heaviest snowstorm that has visited this section in some years. The snow began falling about 1 o'clock this morning and continued incessantly ever since. It is estimated at midnight that fully ten inches has fallen and it is still snowing. Street car traffic is greatly impeded, some of the lines having been compelled to abandon their service entirely.

Reports from Henderson, Oregon, and Paducah, Ky., say that the snow is heavy and still falling. Lexington reports heavy snow throughout the Bluegrass region.

Cattlettsburg reports a heavy fall and still snowing there and at points up the big Sandy.

A mighty storm is raging over the entire south and east, in Alabama, Tennessee and in all the states up to New York and around the great lakes.

MEANT TO KILL CLEVELAND.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 26.—A. W. Alton of New Orleans, Tex., was arrested upon the charge of insanity. He is charged with the murder of President Cleveland.

He was locked up in a cell last night, which he almost demolished during the night. He tore the boards from the wall and did considerable damage. He was almost nude this morning when the officers removed him from the demolished cell to another.

Alton claims also that somebody is after him to do him up. In his ravings he sees all kinds of demons, and this morning said that he could raise the dead and make the sea give up its treasures. He says he has a wife and several little brothers, and thinks they will come to his rescue and release him from jail.

Judge Cain remanded Alton to the workhouse to be examined by the city physician.

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

Fact or Fiction About Two Great Fair Awards.

A newspaper paragraph denounces as "false" the claim of a baking powder company to an award at the World's Fair. Whom can it mean?

Certainly not Dr. Price's. Why? Because, as the records show, Dr. Price's exhibited, competed and received the highest award, both at Chicago and the California Midwinter Fair. The award in California included Gold Medal. The official examiners pronounced it the strongest, the purest, the most wholesome and efficient of all the baking powders. Its title to confidence is unquestioned.

Can it be the manufacturers of a New York powder, fictitiously labeled "absolutely pure" who are making "false" claims? That would be strange indeed, inasmuch as they were not even considered in the awards.

Was it Ammonia in the New York powder that prevented its makers from competing? If not what?

FIRST DISTRICT COURT.

The Big Suit Over the Triangular Iron Fence Near the Provo U. P. Depot is Being Tried Today.

The first business taken up before Judge King in the First District court today was the case brought against the Rio Grande Western Railway company by the Union Pacific Railway and Provo city. The case is entitled, The Oregon Short Line & Utah Northern Railway company and Provo City vs. The Rio Grande Western Railway company and is brought to compel the Western to remove the triangular iron fence enclosing a grass plot just north and a little east of the Union Pacific depot which Provo city, through action of its council, has declared a public nuisance. The railway company not only asks that the fence be removed but asks for damages alleged to have been sustained in consequence of the fence having been so long.

Judge Marshall first interposed a demurrer to the complaint alleging that the railway company and the city corporation cannot legally be joined in this suit. The demurrer was argued pro and con by the attorneys for the space of half an hour. The demurrer was overruled and the attorneys for both sides stated their respective sides of the case, which is now being tried. The judge is hearing and carefully weighing all the evidence.

There are many intricate questions involved in this case, as to the right of the defendant company fencing in a portion of ground over which the public has traveled uninterruptedly for 12 years or more, as to whether the city really owns the land in question or whether it belongs to the defendant company, etc., etc. The history of the ownership of the land is being followed through James Dunn, Peter Stubbs, A. G. Sutherland, The Utah & Pleasant Valley Railway company and the present owners, the Rio Grande Western Railway company, and others who owned it previously. The city alleges that the deed given by Mr. Sutherland specified "up to an S rod street." The street running east and west just north of the depot as platted is only a 4-rod street with one rod left to be used when wanted. On the other part of the eight rods is situated the triangular inclosed grass plot in question.

THACKERAY WAS ANGRY.

The Sailors Who Intended to Play a Trick Changed Their Minds.

Once upon a time the daughters of Thackeray saw that good men thoroughly and heavily and—angry to the point of profanity. It was during their Italian journey, when they were returning to the ship in Genoa harbor after a day on the shore.

"We had to be on board at a certain time," Mrs. Ritchie says in her Macmillan paper, "so that we engaged a carriage and drove quickly to the quay, where the convicts, clanking in their chains, were still at work. A boat was found, rowed by some sailors, who certainly did not wear chains, but who were otherwise not very unlike those instructions convicts in appearance. The bargain was made, we all five entered the boat, and as we were getting in we could see our great ship in the twilight, looking bigger than ever, and one rocket and then another going off toward the dawn stars.

"They are signaling for us," said one of our companions. 'We shall soon be on board.'

"We had pulled some 30 strokes from the shore by this time when suddenly the boatmen left off rowing. They put down their oars and one of them began talking volubly, though I could not understand what he said. 'What's to be done?' said one of the young men to my father. They say they won't go on unless we give them 50 francs more," and he began shaking his head and remonstrating in broken Italian. The boatmen paid no attention, shrugging their shoulders and waiting as if they were determined never to row another stroke.

Then the steamer sent up two more rockets, which rose through the twilight, bidding us hurry, and then suddenly the boatmen rose up in the stern of the boat where he was sitting, and, standing tall and erect and in an angry such as I had never seen him in before or after in all my life, he shouted out in loud and impatient English, "D— you, go on!" a simple malediction which carried more force than all the Italian polysyllables and expostulations of our companions. To our surprise and great relief, the men seemed frightened; they took to their oars again and began to row, grumbling and muttering. When we got on board the ship, they told us it was a well known trick the Genoese boatmen were in the habit of playing upon travelers and that they would have sent a boat for us if we had delayed any longer.

A Philadelphia Experiment.

The object lesson which the ladies of the Health Protective association gave the New York city authorities last winter when they set to work in good housewifely fashion and showed what their idea of a clean street was by bearing fruit in Philadelphia. The New York experiment is to be repeated there by the ladies of the Philadelphia Health Protective association, and the block selected upon which to demonstrate what can be done when women set about it is Twelfth street, between Chestnut and Walnut.

On this block stands the beautiful clubhouse of the new Century club, a woman's organization, making it an eminently suitable spot to bear the imprint of woman's love of neatness.

SENATORS AND BASEBALL.

Mr. Hill of New York Tells About the First Time He Met Mr. Gorman.

Senator Hill tells an interesting story about the first time he ever saw Senator Gorman. It was long before they both became famous, and the incident was not recalled until Senator Hill became a fellow senator with the Maryland leader, and it was found that both were very fond of the national game of baseball.

"It was back in the sixties," said Senator Hill, "when everybody was interested in baseball. There was a convention in New York city. The cities along the Atlantic coast attended. I was a delegate from Elmira, representing the Alerts. I remember that the president of the convention knew nothing about parliamentary law, and it was not long before we were in a tangle and with no prospect of being extricated. Then they got a little fellow in the chair who knew all about the way to handle a convention, and he soon had things running smoothly. He held them down, I tell you. I forgot who he was and never recalled until after coming to Washington, when I was talking about the meeting with Senator Gorman, and he said he was there and presided. And he was. He represented the old Nationals of Washington."

While there are other senators who enjoy baseball, none are such devotees as Senators Hill and Gorman. The Maryland senator has not found time to indulge his inclination this season, as he has been too busy getting a tariff bill through the senate, which Senator Hill has been trying to defeat. Mr. Hill attends every game played here.—Washington Letter.

Women and Learning.

Statistics collected by the regents of the University of New York shows that in the secondary schools there are 29,556 girls of academic grade and 13,243 boys. Last year more than two-thirds of the 458 honor certificates went to girls. In the colleges there are 2,935 girls and 4,045 in the professional and technical schools. Many other young women are studying law, medicine, painting and music. The United States census of 1890 gave the number of women teachers as 238,397. In their report upon these statistics the regents remark, "The remarkable development of woman's higher education is due to widespread recognition that a college course is needed as the best preparation for wifehood, motherhood and home life as much as for a professional life."

If Guilty, Forgiveness Is Assured.

The mortality among newspapers in the United States during the past 18 months has been something almost unprecedented. In New York state alone 278 newspapers, suspended between June, 1893, and June, 1894. For the first time since 1869 the total number catalogued by the newspaper directory is less than for the preceding year. This is said to be due to hard times caused by the Democratic free trade panic, but this is one of the things for which that party will most assuredly be forgiven. If he who makes two blades of grass to grow where but one grew before is a benefactor of his kind, what shall be said of him who makes yet one more paper to desolate the community where there were three before?—San Francisco Argonaut.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adopting the world's best products in the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative, effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers, and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not be misled by cheap imitations.
